

Onitis pecuarius (male)

a tubercle (bump)

a short clypeal ridge

a broken frontal ridge with 2 distinct nodes

strong inward curving extension of the front tibia

Russ Barrow

inset: a detached rear leg showing the distinctive notch and double spur. By contrast females have a smooth femur.

the pronotum, while usually black, can have a brown sheen (males and females)

Russ Barrow